

Kids Voting Leon County is a nonprofit, nonpartisan program devoted to educating students in grades K-12 about the voting process and civic responsibility. Since 1992, local students have voted in each gubernatorial and presidential election cycle after studying national, state, local, and school related issues. Kids Voting Leon County relies on contributions from areas businesses and individual donors as well as hundreds of organizations and volunteers. Almost 9,000 students cast ballots yesterday at area precincts. Following are this year's election results:
